Cooper, Tirsell, Lila spar

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Livermore Mayor Helen Tirsell and VCSD Director Lila Euler took on board of supervisors chairman Fred Cooper Tuesday in a spirited debate over the proposed effluent pipeline that ended with both sides agreeing to disagree.

The drama, spurred on by Cooper's correspondence with regional, State and federal agencies over Harlan Geldermann's proposed New Town, at times took on the aura of a courtroom drama with Cooper, ever the attorney, on the attack.

"You've invited the county to LAVWA (Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency) talks," Cooper said, "but with no vote. Now that your backs are against the wall you're saying you'll cooperate. But cooperation for Livermore has been 'We want to plan for the county, and you stay out of it.' All we get from Livermore is obstruction and lawsuits."

Cooper has called for an Association of Bay Area Governments study of smog sources in the valley, claiming the data compiled to date is inaccurate.

His proposal has been referred to ABAG's Environmental Management Task Force, considered by some to be the environmental power broker of the future, and will take 10 months to a year to complete — if the EMTF agrees to undertake the study.

In the meantime, LAVWA must submit its requirements for a pipeline to carry effluent across the hills to the East Bay Dischargers Authority.

Cooper wants the LAVWA specifications to include room for Geldermann's proposed 45,000 population community in the Las Positas Valley north of Livermore, while LAVWA wants the line limited to carrying Livermore's, Pleasanton's and Valley Community Services District's (VCSD) effluent.

Any delay will jeopardize federal funding for the multi-million dollar project, Euler and Tirsell charged.

Cooper wants LAVWA to consider a compromise offered by San Leandro Mayor and East Bay Dischargers Authority Chairman Jack Maltester that would size the pipeline to take Geldermann's New Town, but limit the pumping station capacity if the federal Environmental Protection Agency ruled against the project.

Since LAVWA has not received a copy of Maltester's compromise, the board officially continued the discussion to April 13.

But that was about all the two factionr could agree on.

"Your plan (to use the increased pipeline size to carry Geldertown effluent) would be 'no growth' to Livermore and Pleasanton," Tirsell charged. "You're saying the cities will ship people out when they graduate from high school because the only growth will be in New Town. It boils down to city growth or county growth."

LAVWA is funded under the federal clean water grant, Euler argued, and has nothing to do with growth. The agency has been ordered to clean up the south county watershed by piping its effluent across the hills.

(VCSD, Livermore and Pleasanton currently drop their effluent into the Alameda Creek where it travels south to the underground water tables. It eventually is reused in southern Alameda and northern Santa Clara Counties.)

LAVWA's specifications allow for the "natural growth" of the existing communities, she said; two percent per year or 40 percent over the next 20 years.

Supervisor John Murphy, whose district encompasses the entire valley, said nothing during the discussion.

Cooper will argue for his ABAG study next month.

Tree trimmer works at 45 - foot heights, thanks to the city's brand new "Hi Ranger." Public safety, tree preservation and dollar savings are the goals

Cherry - picker rides ranger

PLEASANTON — This city has finally found the answer to those out - of - reach trees, and it is a solution that should make home owners everywhere happy, not to mention keeping 6000 trees in the city much healthier.

The "Hi - Ranger" is a $34,000 hunk of equipment that enables city crews to reach some 50 feet into the sky, there to trim out those dead limbs, cut out some of the dangerous weight of 100 - year - old giants along the boulevards, and generally lenghten the life of those elms and walnuts and sycamores.

The city has seen the need for such equipment "for many years now," but it was one of those luxuries that kept getting cut out of the budget. In fiscal 1975-76, the Hi Ranger finally made it.

Working much like the PG&E "Cherry Picker" the Hi Ranger lifts a man high into the air, riding a bucket on the end of a double - elbow arm. From there, using power saws and remote - control of his own carrier, the operator is able to reach all but the loftiest limbs in those lovely old trees.

"It will also enable us to change the lights at the First Street tennis court without bringing in outside help," a city spokesman explained.

Pleasanton board meets

PLEASANTON— The Pleasanton Joint School District board will hold a special meeting tonight to act on the ballot argument for the tax measure planned for the June 8 ballot.

Amador trustees acted on their ballot argument at a meeting last night and also discussed, in closed session, the teachers' contract proposal for 1976-77 Trustees voted to approve the ballot argument.

Pleasanton trustees will also discuss the Amador Valley Teachers Association contract proposal tonight.

Board members will convene at 7:30 p.m. at the District Educational Center, 123 Main St.

Valley Avenue planter strips may get volunteer touch

PLEASANTON — Volunteerism has been a popular topic with the city council in these financially - depressed times and the subject came up again Monday night.

Councilman Frank Brandes thought the latest object of joint civic musclepower could be landscaping the center divider strips on Valley Avenue.

Councilwoman Joyce LeClaire agreed that in view of the short city funds, it would make an ideal civic volunteer project. The neighborhood near Valley Avenue recently raised $1,200 for trees in Woodthrush Park, she observed.

If people don't come forth to do these beautification projects themselves, they may have to do without these "frills", said LeClaire. Brandes said he agreed "agreed 100 percent with that thought."

Before the civic activists can go to work, though, the city must design the grading and irrigation systems which will nurture the plants through their decorative lifetimes, said City Manager Bill Edgar.

"Unfortunately we don't have the time," said Edgar.

There followed some discussion of how citizens might get into maintaining landscaping. Councilman Ken Mercer said that in Castro Valley a pest control operator would drain the pest control fluid out of his truck and replace it with water. He would drive down the street and water the divider strip plants from his truck, said Mercer.

Mayor Robert hilcox observed in a lighter manner that neighborhood canines have devised a similar system for his yard plants.

Crisis is over

Tull wins first round; he'll run for zone 7

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — The valley's constitutional crisis is over.

Paul Tull, a political maverick often found challenging the Livermore City Council, will be listed on this summer's ballot as a candidate for board of directors of Zone 7.

County registrar of voters James Riggs said yesterday he had conferred with county counsel Richard Moore and will accept the attorney's recommendation to place Tull's name on the June 8 ballot.

Tull took out nomination papers in his bid for a directorship of the water district, but found candidacy limited to property owners within the district.

He challenged the provision at last week's supervisors meeting, but was told the board was powerless to waive the requirement.

In granting Zone 7 of the Alameda County Flood Control and Water Conservation District autonomy through the creation of an elected board of directors, the State Legislature acted the land owning requirement in its 1955 amendments.

The American Civil Liberties Union cast a dark cloud over Tull's chances last week in pointing to a 1973 U.S. Supreme Court decision that upheld the freeholding clause for voting rights in a northern California water district.

But Moore cited a 1974 revision to the California Constitution that breaks the bond between a citizen's franchise and property ownership. According to that section, the right to hold office or to vote cannot be subject to owning land, he told the supervisors yesterday.

Two other recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions also separate voting from land holdings, he continued.

In the 1970 Turner versus Fouche decision, the high court ruled against a requirement that only property owners could be appointed to a school board. And in 1975 it struck down a Texas law that tied voting on a bond measure to property ownership within the district.

Moore said the case cited by the ACLU involved a special interest, "limited purpose district" where the court upheld the connection between voting and land. That decision, he said, granted the vote to property owners on the basis of the assessed value of their land.

"The State Constitution preempted the whole problem," said Moore. "It specifically says that property cannot be a prerequisite to voting or holding office."

Murray trustees to look at housing alternatives

A committee of Murray School District administrators has commenced a study of student housing alternatives that could culminate in any one of eight plans ultimately being embraced.

Preliminary discussions Monday night by board membersand assistant superintendent Heinz Gewing indicated the district might consider converting Wells to a district-wide intermediate school, converting Fallon and moving portables to Murray, converting some other district school to solely intermediate grade use or remaining in the present status.

Discussion of the alternatives that principals and central office administration will study in the coming month came following official rescinding of the $1 million bond measure from the June 8 ballot.

Gewing said Tuesday the district will concentrate its attention on finding a workable solution to the predicament it is faced with. That means, according to Gewing, that any immediate thought of finding ways to get funding for construction on the Dolan school site are now dormant.

Pulling the measure, which met a resounding defeat at the polls March 2, off the ballot in affect takes some pressure off the Amador School District's tax measure proposed for June 8. The Amador and Murray districts overlap and voters in those districts would have been faced with two money issues on which to vote on.

Gewing said the panel looking at the alternatives would come back to the board with suggestions at their next regular meeting, scheduled April 5.

Board president Bob Foster initiated the discussion by noting that 35 per cent of the school enrollment in the district attended schools (Lydiksen and Donlon) south of Highway 580 but only 30 per cent of the square footage was located at those schools.

"There are a lot of alternatives but I think we should get on to it. We've had this plan for a new school for eight years," Foster commented after suggesting possible conversion of Fallon School and moving of portables to Murray.

The district presently has one solely intermediate grade school (Wells on Penn Drive in Dublin) and has K-8 enrollments at Donlon, Nielsen and Dublin.

Trustees also discussed the costs of conversion, Dr. Ted Woy noting that such costs would not be covered by the State School Building Program.

The move to drop the bond issue was made by trustee Ann Henderson with newly-sworn in trustee Linda Jeffery seconding.

The annual reorganizational meeting is scheduled for April 5.

In other business, the trustees received a 70-page contract proposal from Murray teachers' Certificated Employees Council and a brief review of same by Rich Piper. The CEC is composed of seven Murray Teachers Association reps and two Murray Professional Educators Group reps

The Alameda County Deputy Sheriffs Wives asked that district schools consider having "Poster Fairs" during April to call attention to National Police Week May 9-15. Deadline for submitting posters is the last week of April.

Following two closed personnel sessions, trustees announced the hiring of Keith Breon as legal adviser. Breon will assist the administration in negotiations and personnel matters. He serves in a similar capacity with the Amador and Pleasanton school boards.

Trouble looms for Mardi Gras

PLEASANTON — One of the most flamboyant, and most successful fund - raisers in Valley history may be dropped. The Pleasanton Mardi Gras seems certain to be skipped for its scheduled 1977 production, and the future of that festivity beyond next year is "still not resolved."

Pleasanton Junior Women's Club brought the Mardi Gras to the Valley in 1972. In the five annual programs that followed, just over $63,000 was raised, all of it distributed to charitable causes which serve the Valley populace Youth Counseling, leased buses for senior citizens and for youth, renovation for the Amador High School Auditorium and timely help for the Pleasanton Emergency Relief Fund were just some of the recipients of that profit, which hit a peak of $19,525 with last year's Mardi Gras.

The Junior Women explain that the Mardi Gras has drained their own energies, and has left that busy organization unable to pursue other community - service projects as much as they would like. The club's membership has been meeting this month to decide whether a 1977 Mardi Gras (work on which would begin in June of this year) will be held, and whether that project will remain a part of future Juniors' scheduling.

(An editorial comment appears in Wednesday's Times.)

Some alarmed over 'grab of children'

A nation - wide campaign which has stirred parents to near - hysteria over alleged "federal takeover of the parental role" has reached this Valley. And it is generating much the same reaction here as it did in communities throughout the country.

The target of this campaign is, presumably, the "Child and Family Service Act of 1975." But the word being passed around to parents, usually through churches and in emotion - packed handbills, goes well beyond the language of that act.

"If, in the judgement of (the designated federal agency) parents are not doing a good job, the (federal agent) would enter the home and direct the education even within the home, and if the parent would object, the authority of the home would, de facto, be transferred to (that federal authority)."

That is what a handbill now getting broad Valley - wide distribution says. The argument for federal intervention in the home is based, according to these critics, on "granting children equal protection under the law." The result, they argue, would be "families run by the state, and children able to defy their parents."

That is the fear. Congressional representatives and their aides have spent a great deal of time denying the charges, appealing to reason, and — incidentally — shelving even the "very mild bill" which triggered the latest wave of parental outrage.

"We've had more mail on this one question than any issue other than impeachment of President Nixon," a spokesman for Congressman Pete Stark's office advised The Times. Stark was one of the authors of the "Child and Family Service Act of 1975." But the 9th District representative has spent a great deal of time explaining that stand, and withdrawing his own support of that bill.

"A shabby political trick," is Stark's own summation of the campaign which, these Congressmen claim, "took small parts of the House debate" over that impending legislation and "made those remarks sound like part of the bill." The charge of "federal takeover of the home" actually is traced to "similar legislation proposed in England, but that has never been advanced in this country," according to a spokesman for Stark's office.

The handbills getting local exposure apparently originated in the south and southwest, authored by Richard Burson, retired director of the Kansas Bible Camp in Missouri. Several religious movements in Contra Costa County took up distribution of that pamphlet weeks ago, and copies worked their into this Valley, appearing largely again in the churches and parochial schools.

Many of those same groups are now busy retracting the handbill, ackowledging that much of the inflamatory information was inaccurate, and in some instances even apologizing for "distributing these pamphlets without first checking out the source."

As of now, everyone seems satisfied that Congress is not about to establish a police state in American homes and "deny parents the right to tell their child to take out the garbage without fear of federal reprisal."

And even that 1975 act which "would have provided federal funding for day care centers" is also lost in the Congressional limbo, victim of a misguided parental backlash to a threat that never was.

Mark, however, attended Westmont High School in Campbell, Calif., and graduated from Chabot College in 1973. Corinne also attended Chabot College and is currently employed with the Amador School District with their Regional Occupational Program.

Mark is employed by the Beimer Machine Works in Pleasanton.

The couple plans to make a first home in Pleasanton.

CHRISTINE DE RYK
AND PAUL SCHMEDINGHOFF
(Robert Thomas Photography)

De Ryk - Schmedinghoff

Christine Elisabeth de Ryk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. de Ryk of Pleasanton, and Paul Anthony Schmedinghoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Schmedinghoff of San Ramon, have set April 10 as their wedding date at St. Augustine's Church in Pleasanton.

Christine, a 1970 graduate of San Rafael High School, attended the College of Marin, and is currently employed by Red Carpet Realtors of Dublin.

Paul is a 1970 graduate of Amador High School and attended Cal-State University in Hayward before joining the U.S. Navy. He has been employed with the Montgomery Ward Company in central repair since his discharge, April 4, 1974.

Seibolt - Knowlton

The Lutheran Church of the Resurrection in Dublin was the scene of the wedding which joined Dorothy Ann Seibolt and Michael W. Knowlton in marriage. The Rev. David G. Aubrey officiated at the March ceremony, which was witnessed by Matron of Honor Gloria Hallack and bridesmaids Susan Blake and Roberta Neilson.

Guy Cutter acted as best man with John McDonald and Mike Hallack serving as ushers.

Dorothy, a 1973 graduate of Dublin High, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Seibolt of San Ramon, who honored the young couple with a reception at the Shannon Center in Dublin following the ceremony.

Michael, also a 1973 graduate of Dublin High, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Knowlton of Pleasanton. He is currently employed with the Eager Beaver Trucking Company in Hayward. The new Mr. and Mrs. Knowlton are making their first home in Pleasanton while the bride continues her employment at the Liberty House in Dublin.

TOPS convenes

Those to be honored as weight-loss division winners include Ida Silveira, Shirley Graham, Wilma Phillips and Betty Raper.

The chapter welcomes prospective members to its weekly Thursday meetings at Franklin Savings which convene at 7 p.m. For information contact Mrs. Graham at 462-2960 or Mrs. Silveira at 846-8469.

Coffee-tasting to benefit

Exotic coffees will be tasted at a party set tonight at 7:30 p.m. to benefit the two Hunter children, orphaned by a residential fire in Pleasanton.

Host will be the Pleasanton Junior Women's Club at the Bibere Restaurant in the Valley Plaza in Pleasanton.

The event is open to the public at $2 per person, and no reservations are necessary.

Admission includes a variety of pastries to complement the sampling of coffees.

Hatha yoga offered

Sign-ups are being accepted now for the Twin Valley YMCA classes in hatha yoga offered at Livermore and Pleasanton.

In Livermore classes meet Tuesday evenings at Emma Smith School from 7 p.m. In Pleasanton the classes convene at the YMCA Building on Rose Avenue Wednesday mornings at 10 a.m.

Fee for the eight-week series is $12. Call the "Y" office at 462-2211 for more information or to sign-up.

AAUW to award scholarships

Applications for the college scholarships sponsored by the Livermore-Pleasanton branch of the American Association of University Women are now available.

The scholarships for the academic year 1976-77 will be awarded to women who reside in the Livermore-Amador Valley, or who have graduated from one of its high schools. Applicants must expect to have attained at least a junior standing by September at an accredited four-year college, and plan to complete their full course of study within two years (one year, if a senior).

Recipients are chosen on the basis of need and scholastic achievement. But it is stressed that they need not be "A" students.

The amount of scholarship awarded will vary from $200 to $400, depending on the funds available. Scholarship winners from last year may also apply for renewal.

Applications may be obtained at the Valley Campus of Chabot College, at San Jose State University, California State University at Hayward, or the Latin American Services Organization, 161, South M St., Livermore.

To obtain application through the mail, send a legal-size, stamped, self-addressed envelope with request to Rosemary Coleman, 1573 Roselli Dr., Livermore, Calif. 94550.

All applications must be in the hands of Mrs. Coleman no later than April 7.

An informational coffee for prospective members of the AAUW branch is set Thursday, March 25 at 8 p.m.

The AAUW incorporates many special interest groups including those dealing with gourmet cooking, gardening, bridge, tennis, swimming, theater, book reviews, investments and excursions.

The AAUW will also study the following topics during the coming year: "Economic Facts of Live — Living with Less;" "The 21st Century — Deciding Now;" "Generating Creativity" and "World Pluralism — the Human Encounter."

For more information about the coffee or AAUW contact Ginnie Faltings at 443-0238. The AAUW is open to all women with a baccalaureate degree or higher from an accredited college or university.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

American women of all classes stood firmly beside their men in the Revolution. "Even Weamin had firelocks," wrote a British soldier ruefully of the sniping that took heavy toll of the Redcoats on the road back from Lexington and Concord. "One was seen to fire a Blunder bus between her Father, and Husband, from their Windows," The World Almanac reports.

Solar energy generator is goal of State energy commission

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state Energy Commission has taken steps it hopes will result in California getting the world's first large-scale solar energy generating plant.

The commission voted 5-0 last Wednesday to urge the legislature to approve $2 million to, in effect, enhance California's bid in the eyes of the federal government.

The U.S. Energy Research and Development Agency is seeking nationwide proposals for an $85-million experimental solar plant, with the federal government paying $75 million.

Two utilities—Southern California Edison and Los Angeles County Water and Power—already have proposed building such a plant.

Commission spokesman Vic Biondi said the commission wants all California utilities— large and small — to be involved and is not endorsing a particular utility's plan.

"We urge the legislature to have California pick up about $2 million of the $10 million to show the state's committment and support of solar energy," Biondi said.

The federal agency plans to select a power company in August for the contract ward to build a 10 megawatt plant that would be uniquely built into an existing utility system, Biondi said.

Construction would start in March 1978 and the plant would begin operating by 1980.

"Arizona already has its utilities together," Biondi said, "but the commission feels ERDA will listen strongly to a money commitment."

The sun's rays would be used to vaporize gas or create steam to drive a turbines and generate electricity.

SRV planners meet

DANVILLE — Plans for additions to the Roundhill Country Club and a 44-unit townhouse project face the local planning committee today.

The San Ramon Valley Community Planning Committee will meet at 7:30 a.m. at the Franklin Savings and Loan, Danville.

Four minor subdivisions are proposed for the Roundhill Country Club. Committee members delayed a decision on the proposals earlier to hear what Roundhill residents thought of the plans.

The 44-unit townhouse project is planned on 5.4 acres in the Sycamore area of Danville.

Other agenda items include applications for an office building in Danville, a nine-unit apartment complex on West El Pintado, Danville, and a nursery school on Estates Drive, Danville.

Granada graduates a success

LIVERMORE — Granada High graduates are extremely successful in their college careers, according to a state university follow - up study.

The three - year study revealed that 70 GHS graduates entered one of the state university system's eight branches. Only two dropped out and only three had a grade point average below "C."

Compared to their high-school grades, the students averaged about three- quarters of a grade lower in college.

According to GHS principal Jack Lee, a representative of the state university system who visited Granada recently reported the local graduates have one of the highest success rates in the state.

Commercial parking ban passes

DUBLIN — After pressure from residents in unincorporated areas, county supervisors passed an ordinance banning the parking of commercial vehicles in residential districts for more than two hours.

The ordinance was passed as an emergency measure after citizens complained of large trucks and trailers parked overnight in residential areas.

Sheriff's deputies, in cooperation with the California Highway Patrol, will begin enforcement immediately.

In the army now

Mike Zampa

Mr. Inside and Mr. Outside are turning upside down in the West Point Hall of Fame. At Annapolis, Jolly Roger has traded his smile for a bemused smirk.

Army is going coed. So is Navy.

By next fall there may be as many as 200 women enrolled at the country's two greatest service academies. It'll be full speed ahead and damn the spray net. Over hill and over dale, and no one stops for a run in the stockings.

An act of Congress opened the doors to Army and Navy late last year. Right now young ladies are lining up to become Middies and Cadets.

Gloria Steinem, meet Black Jack Pershing.

More than 400 women were nominated last month to become American military pioneers at West Point. One was a Livermore cheer leader, Sandy Irwin of Granada High School.

She expects word from The Academy by April. If it's bad — well, she's been nominated for Annapolis too, and it will do just fine.

The candidates are being studied for academic and physical prowess and the best of the batch will be ushered into The Academy boot camp this July.

In the grandest tradition of our fighting forces, stodgy elements at the two institutions are kicking up a fuss. They may have been licked by federal statute, but that won't stop them from complaining bitterly. Once the U.S. Senate was integrated, West Point and Annapolis became the final bastions of male seclusion. Oldtimers, and perhaps younger men with a deep sense of the traditional, resent this final abridgement of the fraternity.

But there's no turning back the tide. Lady Cadets and Midshipwomen are written into the regulations. Their uniforms have been designed and all that remains is the selection of candidates to fill them.

"We have met the enemy," they're saying along the banks of the Hudson; "And now they is us."

Actually, the tone of acceptance isn't quite that begrudged. Sandy, who spent a weekend at West Point recently, says The Academy is eager to begin training women for military careers. If it has to be done, Army wants to do it better than Navy.

And if there's prejudice against women Cadets, it hasn't seeped into the screening procedures for candidates.

In fact, tests, at least the physical ones, are quite fair, according to Sandy's advisor, Claude Cameron. He is a football coach at Granada and well aquainted with physical capabilities of high school seniors, male and female. Cameron helped Sandy prepare for physical aptitude tests she underwent recently.

Such exams have been sore points in police departments. Women have charged that they are purposely stiffened to keep females out. Cities have been taken to court over the issue.

The test Sandy took at San Francisco Presidio included four events — a basketball throw with both knees on the floor, standing broad jump; a 300-yard shuttle run between two boundaries 25-yards apart, and a bar hang in which the candidate must hold her chin even with an eight-foot high bar as long as possible.

"Let's face it," says Cameron. "A women going to the Academy is going to be expected to run, and a certain amount of jumping ability is required too. So it wasn't an unfair test for that at all."

Women bound for The Academy must do more than run and jump, however. Like the men, they'll be required to take physical education courses — which they must not fail. Also, they'll have to compete for intercollegiate or intramural athletic teams.

Sandy says she has not been athletic. Cheer leading consumed all the time that might have been devoted to sports.

But for a month prior to her physical testing, she worked out daily at the Grecian Health Spa. "I liked working with the weights, but I hated to run — it was so boring."

Nevertheless, Sandy says she'd be eager to play intramural football or perhaps try swimming. She'll also suggest formulation of a cheer leading squad for Cadet teams.

Charted against a battery of 200 female army personnel, Sandy posted average scores in the physical testing for West Point and Annapolis. The test counts for about 10 per cent of a candidates total score when applying for a service academy. But physical training is a key element of Academy training. Cadets have been washed out for failing P.E.

That aspect of Academy life won't be simple, Sandy says. "But it's something I've got to get through."

Sandy's father was an army intelligence man in the Korean War. That helped mould her "very pro military" outlook. She enjoys the thought of pioneering a new chapter in American military annals. "The 160 women who make it to The Academies will go down in history," she says.

She didn't seek a nomination to fulfill fairytale dreams, however, or earn a comendation from N.O.W., ("I am not a woman's libber").

Her motivations were part practical — good education, leadership opportunities and prestige, and part emotion — "It was just an instinct, something I knew I wanted to do."

Cadets she talked to on her weekend visit were kind and receptive. But they still prefered an all-male profile for West Point.

"They think women will bring the standards down," Sandy says. "But women can be competitive with men academically, and that will raise the standards."

Socially, it will be a restrictive first year if Sandy is accepted. Plebes (freshmen) can't stray off campus often. Women plebes won't be allowed to date older Cadets.

"But they didn't say anything about dating officers," she pointed out with a wide-eyed smile."

Pokes rout Eagles

Livermore High School's baseball team tuned up for its EBAL opener with California High by easily defeating American High of Fremont, 6-0 on the Pokes' diamond yesterday.

The Cowboys received excellent pitching by four men as Jeff Perry, Greg Fretes, Jeff Benton and winner Jim Beckert teamed for a three-hit shutout. Meanwhile, Livermore broke a tight game open in the third stanza by scoring five runs and breezed the rest of the way.

"We hit the ball for the first time this year," said Livermore varsity coach Kevin Drake. "We only had six hits in our first two games and I was pleased by the way the kids were going after the ball today."

Reflecting on his pitching staff Drake seemed satisified by their performance but added that they still needed some work.

"Pitching and defense will win for us and we still have some work to do but we did come up with some good plays," he said.

The Cowboys broke the ice with a run in the third inning. Pete Fallon walked and stole second. The Eagles, using a trick play, tried to pick Fallon off second but threw the ball away, allowing Fallon to go to third. He then came in on Dan Wood's single to left.

The Cowboys put it away in the fourth inning. Rick Gildea walked and stole second then went to third on Bob Tarte's single. After Tim Palmer struck out Brent Knapp walked to load the bases. Fallon then hit a high chopper to third and Gildea scored on the fielder's choice. Kerry Dean, Woods and Rich Palmer all followed with singles to put the game out of reach.

Mt. Diablo's depth, balance crushes Cal, Falcons

CONCORD — In a meet contested only because the schedule so demanded California and Foothill, two of the East Bay's newer high schools, fell to Mt. Diablo in a non-league track meet here yesterday.

Final score of the rapid affair was Mt. Diablo, 120 1/2, Foothill 31½ and California, 10.

In frosh-soph action, the Devils won with 107 points California had 48 and Foothill 12.

Cal coach Joe Camporeale wasn't that upset by his team's showing. Noting, "Heck, we only have six guys running varsity this year, but we still have to compete at that level.

"I'm mostly concerned with frosh-soph this year. We're building for a solid future," Camporeale added. "We've got good sprinters, good jumpers and we're strong in the field events. You can say we're balanced."

Overall, there were few, if any, highlights in this meet. Diablo's Ron Criner, prehaps the best distance runner in the Diablo Valley Athletic League, turned in a strong 4:35.1 in the mile. Teammate Bill Beddecarre followed closely at 4:35.8.

The Grizzlies' Craig Cline performed well, staying with the Red Devils in three events. Cline was second in the long and triple jumps before coming back to run third in the 100-yard dash. Cal's Willie Huff, who ripped to 9.9 at Laney College Friday with aid from the wind, did not run yesterday.

Diablo's Larry Manuel bounded to 41-2½ in winning the triple jump. Manuel also won the long jump at 19-11 1/2.

Camporeale continued, "I think in a couple of years we will match others in the EBAL. Right now Cal has only 700 enrolled students. How can we compete with schools like Livermore and Granada which have twice that many?

"We're just trying to increase our numbers."

Cal showed its youthful mettle in the frosh-soph division as Mike Dunn sped to 11.0 in taking the 100 and won the high jump with an effort of 5-4.

For the most part, Cal and Foothill were never in the meet. Diablo won 14 of 16 varsity events and the two they lost were no disgrace.

Gangnuss stars as Dublin defeated

Chuck Gangnuss continued his excellent hurdling but the Dublin High School track team fell to a powerful College Park team, 80-56 yesterday on the winners' track.

Gangnuss won the 330 low hurdles in a fine clocking of 39.5, just two tenths off his seasonal best. Teammate Jon Batchelor won the 100-yard dash in a fine 10.2. Batchelor also ran a leg on the winning 440-yard relay team which clocked a seasonal best of 44.0. The Gaels won the North Coast Section sophomore division 440-yard relay championship last season.

Batchelor came back in the 220-yard dash to take a 23.8 victory against stiff competition. The Gaels also won the mile relay in a rapid 3:38.4.

College Park won the varsity meet on the strength of some fine performances by Matt Dowling and Kevin Searls.

Dowling, a state meet performer last year, won the 880 in 1:57.8, a school record. Searls took the two-mile in 9:50.8 and won the mile in 4:36.2. Dane Lance of the Falcons won three events, including a 12-foot pole vault. He has done 12-9 this season.

College Park also won the frosh-soph and girls' meets easily. College Park won the frosh-meet with 88 points to 43 for Antioch Junior High and 39 for the Gaels. Dublin's 440-yard relay team recorded a 48.0 for a first place medal.

College Park had 74 points in the girls' meet to 38 for Dublin and 14 for Antioch Junior High.

Chris Hoenig prep winner

After making All-American last season what can Granada High School's standout swimmer Chris Hoenig do for an encore?

Plenty. And he's starting to prove that after a brillant weekend against some great competition.

All Hoenig did was swim an excellent 1:59.8 200-yard individual medley against a powerful Serra of San Mateo squad Friday and swim on three relay teams in the Pacific Invitational Saturday at John Muir Junior High School in San Leandro. To top this off he swam the individual medley in 1:59.4 at the Senior qualifying AAU meet Sunday at Ohlone College in Fremont. This was the fastest individual medley time ever recorded by a Southern Alameda County prep.

For these outstanding efforts Hoenig was named Alameda County Prep of the Week by the area sportwriters.

And Hoenig can go even faster, if Matador coach Gus DeGara is correct in his evaluation of Chris's potential.

"I think Hoenig can go 1:57 in the individual medley this season and could rank with the top three in the state," said DeGara.

Hoenig is also an outstanding freestyle swimmer. He tied for first in the 100-yard freestyle at Serra with a 50.5 clocking.

According to DeGara, Hoenig's biggest asset is his versatility.

"Hoenig is our most versatile athlete," DeGara admits. "If we are weak or lack depth in a particular event, I can put Hoenig in it and feel confident he will win it. He is a very great asset to our team in this way."

Hoenig should be a top contender for North Coast Section honors this year. Last season he was fourth in the individual medley and third in the 500-yard freestyle.

He's a cinch to do better this season.

Hoenig leads the Matadors against California at the Granada pool today in a EBAL meet. Other competition has Livermore hosting San Ramon and Monte Vista meeting Dublin at Round Hill Country Club in Alamo.

Nejedly wants BART suit expedited

By JUSTIN ROBERTS
Times Staff Writer

SACRAMENTO — Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, has introduced a bill that would require the Alameda County Superior Court to give precedence to the quarter-billion-dollar damage suit filed by BART against its major suppliers and contractors.

The suit, filed in December 1973, is currently tied up in the state Supreme Court awiting a decision on the defendants' plea for a change of vente.

Nejedly said Monday he submitted the bill because "every day of delay has adverse effect on the interests of taxpayers in the district."

Nejedly said the measure is aimed at accelerating the trial of the BART suit against the Westinghouse Electric Co., designer and producer of the district's automatic train control system; Rohr Industries, builder of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District's 450-passenger cars, and Parsons-Brinckerhoff-Tudor-Bechtel, BART's consulting engineers.

Attorneys for BART last Wednesday estimated it would take another two years before the BART case comes to trial, and Nejedly Monday commented that he wrote the bill out of "frustration."

"Every day the suit is delayed is to the interest of the defendants. All the principals and the stockholders can gradually fade away. BART hasn't yet developed a system for calculating its day-to-day losses from lost revenue and technical problems. The longer the district waits, it loses more employes who know the facts and memories grow dim," he added.

The Supreme Court is expected to take several weeks to decide whether to grant the jointly-filed plea for trial in any other county than those within the BART district.

That delay, plus the estimate of two years beford starting the trial and the prospect that the trial may take a year, followed by appeals, makes settlement of the suit unlikely before 1980.

The original suit asked the courts to award $237.8 million — but amended claims for losses incurred by the district are expected to push the total to more than $250 million.

Westinghouse, Rohr and PBTB claimed before the Supreme Court last Wednesday that they probably could not get a fair nd unbiased jury in any of the three BART counties.

Nejedly also expressed concern over the shaky financial status of Rohr Industries which this month reported $5.4 million in losses for its second fiscal quarter. The Chula Vista firm lost $28.3 million in the first half of its fiscal year, causing Nejedly to express concern that the firm may not be in existence in several years to pay a judgment if one is awarded by the court.

Nejedly also criticized BART management for failing to ask that the case be given preferential calendaring. "Instead of sitting around saying they've got delays in the judicial system, why didn't they ask that the judicial system be expedited?"

Gil Eagles show ducats on sale at Amador High

PLEASANTON — Tickets are now on sale at the main office at Amador Valley High School for the Monday evening show of Gil Eagles, billed as the "entertaining psychic."

Eagles will give one performance Monday night at 8 in the Amador Valley High School auditorium.

He played the Fairgrounds Amphitheatre last summer and was greeted by standing room only crowds of more than 2,000. He recently played at Chabot College in Hayward and kept an audience spellbound for several hours.

Eagles is purportedly an expert in extra sensory perception and combines a keen technical insight with humor and showmanship.

His appearance in the valley has been arranged by Robert Holland, a sociology instructor at Amador Valley High.

Holland also plans an early-April program on unidentified flying objects, featuring UFO authority Hugh Barnes.

Persons planning to attend either show are advised to buy their tickets this week and avoid lines at the box office on show night.

Go-carts, bikes barred at Pleasanton youth park

PLEASANTON — The city will ban the use of horses, motorcycles, go carts, motorbikes and gas - powered model airplanes at Youth Sports Park.

Recreation Director Robert Caparusso told the park and recreation commission in a staff report that this is one of the things which the city can do in response to a request for action from residents near the park.

The residents, led by Stan Callon, asked for changes in the park's use.

The city will post signs at the two park entrances — Hopyard Road footbridge on Blackbird Avenue two signs at the opening east of the park prohibiting these activities.

Noise and inconvenience from these activities prompted the neighbors to object to them.

The residents had other concerns in their petition. One was a request for construction of a fence at the east end of the park to prohibit motorcycles from entering and leaving the park from that point.

No funds are budgeted for such a fence this year and it would cost $1,000 to rent a six-foot chain link fence for two years to enclose the east end of the park. Caparusso thinks that's too costly.

A better way to solve the problem is to post signs and have organizations using the facility keep out motorcycles, said Caparusso.

A chain link fence will be contructed "in the near future" to prevent entrance to the canal from the park's footbridge, as outlined in the residents' concern, said Caparusso.

Caparusso disagreed with a request to move the western-most soccer field 50 yards to the north in phase one of the park's development. If the field were moved, it would tear up the baseball infield to the north, said Caparusso.

Other concerns included installation of four softball diamonds on the south side of the park and a lighted baseball and softball field at the north end in phase two.

Caparusso feels that neither installation would bother homeowners near the park. Development of the four fields is "imperative," said Caparusso. The lighting of the other diamond has a low priority, he added.

The park and recreation commission will meet at 8 p.m. today in the city council chambers, 30 W. Angela St.

Coping

Jerry : an antidote to Patty

By Lew Koch

Only a few people in the Sunnyvale-San Jose, Calif. region know the story of Jerry Alvarado — yet it is a thousandfold more significant than the millions upon millions of words spent on fellow Californian Patty Hearst.

Jerry Alvarado grew up in Northern California, frequently encountering that region's prejudices against Chicanos.

At 16, Jerry was alone, fighting to keep body and mind together, working at the menial jobs only Mexican-Americans were offered, living in a run-down hotel, nursing a hatred for "whitey." Then came the Army for two years, an honorable discharge, and three boring, stifling years working in a warehouse.

All his life Jerry had been fascinated by machinery, the clang and clatter, the humming and whirling of machinists's work. But the machinists' union did not look favorably on the idea of one of "those" (meaning Chicanos, of course) running one of those very complicated, very important machines.

Yet there was one man, an Anglo from Oregon, who owned a small machine shop, who gave not a damn where a man was born, and took an interest in Jerry. For one year, once a week, Jerry asked the man for a job — but there was just nothing open. Then, in 1959, the man offered Jerry a part-time job for a $1.75 an hour. One year later Jerry went to work fulltime, with a 50-cent-an-hour raise.

In a short time, Jerry became a top machinist, the kind of worker who was assigned a job and not bothered by the foreman until the job was completed.

Jerry had married Josie not long after he left the Army, and with his good job, three sons followed. Money was good and the Alvarado family began to realize the great American dream — a small house, a car and a small camper, summer vacations. Yet deep within Jerry there was a gnawing, growing feeling of dissatisfaction, a feeling that there was something more to life than being a top machinist.

One Sunday, Josie read a want ad in the newspaper calling for a bilingual machinist to teach that trade to unemployed or underemployed men. Josie felt that Jerry would make a wonderful teacher and urged him to take the position. Jerry was interested, he felt he could be a good teacher, but the job meant a cut in pay and he was a proud man, a man who wanted to give his wife and children the best. But Josie insisted he take the job and finally Jerry did.

Today Jerry works for the Opportunity Training Center in San Jose, a place where men and women spend five to eight months, sometimes even longer, to become machinists or electronic assemblypersons, key punch operators, clerks or grocery store checkers. Many of Jerry's students are Chicanos and have to be taught to read blueprints written in English. Those with no math skills are taught basic trigonometry. It's one step at a time with these men, but for Jerry, and for them, it's worth it. (Jerry also teaches whites, blacks and yellows — for Jerry no longer hates anyone.)

One man Jerry taught was in jail — available for training on a work-release program. Jerry trained the prisoner to be a journeyman machinist. Now, three years later, the man and his wife, both working, earn $20,000 a year. "He did it for himself," Jerry says. But an objective observer would have to add, "Not without Jerry's help."

There have been times recently when the funding for the Opportunity Training Center in San Jose has been cut, followed by a cut in Jerry's salary. What with several pay cuts plus enormous inflation, Jerry thinks about returning to industry and earning a lot more money. Josie wants Jerry to stay where he is. They'll make do, somehow, she says.

Jerry Alvarado's life will never receive the same amount of attention as that of Patty Hearst — yet he is infinitely more important. Jerry's priorities are clear. It's society's that are all fouled up.

Parades and other customs

Allright, so where does Mayor Tirsell get off suggesting that Livermore consider dropping "those tiresome beauty pageants"? And what gives Councilman Herlihy the right to question the "Annual Good Times Parade" down Pleasanton way?

Next thing you know, some citizen will suggest the Livermore council stop funding the rodeo parade, or some kook in Pleasanton will challenge public funding for the Annual Fair Parade. Come to think of it, somebody already did, on both counts.

Is it possible these "grand old traditions" are really subject to latter - day review? If we have any sense at all, they are. Anything worth broad public support year in and year out, is worth careful scrutiny, every now and then. To paraphrase that old Truman test — If these pageants can't stand the heat, they should get off the front burner.

Sometimes we wonder who really attends, supports or participates in these "annual events." Even the journalists who so stoutly defend "that grand old community tradition" are usually spending the holiday weekend elsewhere — "because I've done that local event too many times."

In none of this do we suggest that your favorite parade, pageant or circus be dropped from the Valley calendar. But neither can we rap those public servants who dare question the annual revival of that time - honored whatsit. Seems like that's what they're their for.

Whose smog?

Item: The Valleys of San Ramon, Amador and Livermore are the subject of critical "air pollution" studies ... most evidence points to Oakland - Martinez and the San Jose areas as the source for much of this Valley's smog.

Item: Attempts at expanding solid waste treatment facilities in this Valley are frowned upon by regional and federal authorities, but Central Contra Costa County's sewer district is funded for an expansion that will permit 60,000 dwellings to be added to the Upper San Ramon Valley.

Item: Santa Clara County this week opened a $50 million amusement park that is being hailed as "Disneyland North." The Park is expected to attract millions of visitors each year, most of them in the smog - laden summer months.

Question: Are the "air pollution watchers" who evidence such deep concern for this Valley's smog ratings the same experts who tolerate unlimited growth to the north, and unrestrained fun to the south of us?

Possible Answer: Check with the "water pollution control" people who have been hammering this hinterland for tighter "salt discharge standards"; it's the same state bureau that continues to allow San Francisco to dump raw sewage onto the beaches and into the ocean.

$64,000 question

Take one mighty successful community venture, average out the net yield to just under $13,000 per year, provide new life to a dozen projects that might otherwise have floundered and what have you got?

A debate over the future of the Pleasanton Mardi Gras, that's what.

This most unique, most venturesome and most exhausting of Valley fund raisers today has a problem. The Mardi Gras has been so successful, it could die of its own weight. The Pleasanton Junior Women's Club, which brought the Mardi Gras to this Valley scene five years ago, is now trying to decide whether to continue with that venture.

The problem, quite frankly, is that the Juniors — an organization proud of its support of a score of community programs — has just about exhausted itself from that one big February fund raiser. Some say the community, particularly the business sector, has also exhausted the local abililty to sustain that biggest of charities.

The Times, admittedly, has been a friend of Mardi Gras from the outset. We particularly like that format which guarantees ALL income raised by the king and queen candidates will flow direct to the several pre-determined causes. The promotion costs are borne by the Juniors and by profits from the Mardi Gras Ball.

We also liked the open - handed approach the Juniors used in deciding each year's list of recipients for Mardi Gras profit — 12-passenger vans provided senior citizens in both Livermore and Pleasanton, funding to guarantee new life for a Valley Youth Counseling service, some $15,000 to help refurbish the Amador Auditorium as a center for all cultural perfornances.

This year's beneficiaries are the Pleasanton Emergency Fund, the Volunteer Bureau, Valley Memorial Hospital and a pair of bicentennial programs. The pattern is always the same — causes and needs that are not in the spotlight of community funding, and that might otherwise not be funded at all.

We can not tell the Pleasanton Juniors how to make their decision. But we can remind them that the "Mardi Gras Story" has been one of unique, magnificent success. Not just for the $64,000 directed to a score of worthy programs over the past five years, but for the manner in which those recipients were chosen, and for the enjoyment many of us had, while still rendering a real service.

We would hope the Juniors and their friends would find ways of sustaining even a modest version of the Pleasanton Mardi Gras (including the suggestion of an every - other - year program that sounds plausible).

But if they cannot, then we can only thank those young ladies for a grand effort, and a grand time. Mardi Gras has given for community self - improvement.

Letters to the Times

Tull vs. Vene

Editor, The Times:

The Times carried a letter signed by Mr. Vene Smeltzer opening up two rather important questions.

The first concerns the flouridatin of water. Having been raised in a part of the country with naturally flouridated water and in addition the stepson of a milkman, I decided that I was still young enough, and my teeth were bad enough to require replacement in 1950.

I do not push for non flouridated water from an ignorance of chemistry or people. Chemistry first; the fluoride recommended, as you stated, did probably cause cancer. That particular experiment was carried to extremes. ...

Having had to use Sodium Flouride as a cleaner and to etch glass, I do know of it's danger in high concentration. ... In the case of Sodium Flouride in the presence of Calcium Carbonate (the major component that stiffens our bones) the highly active Sodium Flouride replace the Calcium Carbonate on a one to one basis ... Admittedly this occurs slowly, but we all age slowly, and I seem to remember an article, quoting a dental group, stating that the Flourides were of little or no use to us after Puberty.

Concerning the implication that my information comes from the John Birch Society and your allegation of their anti-communist learnings. As you very well know, I am not omniverous reader. I, heretofore, have been not a "joiner." However, my circle of friends include Chamber of Commerce, Eagles, V.F.W., D.A.V., Masons, Moose, as well as John Birchers. They all are People and being only human, are composed of the Good, Bad, and Indiferent; Intelligent, Ignorant, and inbetween ... As to the question of drinking directly from the Sacramento River, I have not recommended such, nor will I.

After your Christmas card, and now your letter providing such a fine sounding board for my views on these subjects, it would seem that amongst many others you also support my candidacy for Zone 7 Water Quality Control Board.

Pitch for PARC

Editor, The Times:

PARC has been more and more effective over the last couple of months in introducing the PARC concept to various local, state and federal agencies which can and do play a very important part in the institutionalization of the PARC concept. For example, the East Bay Regional Park District, the federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, and more recently the California State Department of Parks and Rcreation, have been brought together to discuss and support the PARC concept. We are an effective advocacy organization.

Therefore, won't you please continue your support of PARC and see the PARC concept through. Yearly dues are $5.00.

Young Athletes

Editor, The Times:

I would like to thank Mike Zampa, for a well written article, on 9 year old Damian Stocking, a very dedicated little 3rd grade athlete, and also for his kind history, on how I got started coaching little youngsters in sports.

I have always enjoyed the look in their eyes, when I help them attain some measure of their dreams and hopes, as fun not as a driving, pushing sadist, but rather as a helper in their "all American Dreams." All of us, at one time or another, enjoyed the same dreams.

I would like to thank Karel Kramer for an article, she wrote about my walking for my health all over town last year in (April ? I think).

Two wonderful people, representative of all of you.

Overpass needed

(Copy of a letter sent to Assemblyman Floyd Mori)
Dear Assemblyman Mori,

We are in total support of your efforts to secure State funds for the construction of the overpass and interchange at Las Positas Drive and I-680 in Pleasanton.

We feel, as you do, that the need for the overcrossing and interchange is overwhelming. We also feel strongly that the State obligation to fund and construct it is also clear.

The overcrossing and interchange, as we're sure you are aware, will prevent children from unsafely crossing I-680, improve police department and fire department response times, reduce school district fuel consumption for busing, help keep sales tax dollars in Pleasanton, and will tie two parts of Pleasanton back together that have been isolated from one another too long.

We feel because the State, in 1970, promised to construct the overcrossing and interchange, that local funds should not be committed — at least without a negotiated pay-back arrangement with the State.

We see your legislation as a necessary and immediate solution to the interchange problem. We see our alternative as something worth considering should your good efforts not succeed.

Please feel free to call on our committee at any time for support of your Las Positas efforts.

round the town

Governor Brown's announcement that he would be a "favorite son" candidate for the presidency caught much of the nation's news media by surprise. It was only because the major networks and wire services had full crews working California for the Patty Hearst thing that any of them were able to respond at all to Jerr Brown's big story.

"Break away from Hearst and get over to Sacramento," NBC - TV told its man in SF. "Brown is about to announce his bid for the presidency."

"I can't possibly leave SF right now," NBC's man replied. "We understand Patty is about to hold a press conference on her Revolutionary Cook Book. What's more important? — Brown doing his silly thing in Sacramento, or Patty telling all in San Francisco?" NBC finally compromised, and sent its sports' stringer to Sacramento. (He thereby missed the Jeff Mullins night with the Warriors, and was madder - n - hell, I understand.)

CBS - TV got around the problem of Patty's cook book versus Brown's candidacy in a clever fashion.

"CAN'T BREAK FROM HEARST NOW," the CBS man in SF advised his editor in New York. "SOMETHING COOKING ON NEW HEARST BOOK."

To which New York replied — "ASSIGNING OUR FOOD EDITOR TO HEARST COVERAGE. YOU GET YR FANNY TO SACTO FOR BROWN STATEMENT."

Turned out (as you all know by now) that CBS - TV got its assignments backwards. ABC outfoxed them all by assigning its food editor to the Jerr Brown thing in Sacramento, thereby scooping the nets with that delightful revelation on "How President Edmund G. Brown, Jr. would change the nation's eating habits once he's in the White House."

It was ABC's expose on Brown's domestic platform that resulted in that stock market upheaval ... Safeway and Lucky Stores went to all - time lows on the big board, while Burger King and Hunt's tomato catsup soared to record highs.

"Brilliant piece of reporting on Brown's domestic policies," the NBC man said to the ABC man, in a quiet moment they were later to share in a Stockton bar. "I still don't know how you people had the foresight to assign your food editor to Brown's press conference, and then send your entertainment bureau chief to the Patty Hearst thing. You scored a twin killing with that one."

I only recall that incident here so that our own readers might know of the tremendous challenge facing the news people in trying to cover today's fast - breaking events. It's not enough to be aware that the story is developing; the important thing is having the right reporter at the proper place for that big event. It's a tough job, worth every penny of the $100,000 - plus they pay TV news directors.

I have before me the "News Media's Playbook for Covering All Major Events." To my knowledge, this is the first time any member of the press has revealed the contents of this book. (I am no longer covered by the Cronkite Rule, having played out my editorial option last year. However, they forgot to take back my playbook!)

"Always figure that any given news maker, on any given day, can beat out any news reporter." That's Lesson One in the News Media's Playbook. Unfortunately, some of the news people just never learn. Take that flap at UPI just the other day. We enter the scene as the UPI bureau chief is concluding his comments to Hollywood office.

"You blithering idiot," Bureau Chief says to HO. "How could you let Richard Burton run off with his girl - of - the - month without having our man there to cover the story?"

"We've had our best reporter with Burton day and night for the past two weeks," HO explained to chief. "And that's just the problem. Two weeks of drinking with Burton and our man finally collapsed under the strain. Richard took off with the girl right after the twelfth bottle, and just before they brought the check."

HO and Bureau Chief agreed that "Burton is a pro who can beat you anytime," and they both pledged to do better next time.

"The best reporters avoid sex 24 hours before all major news events." That's Rule Two in the News Media's Playbook. I am here to tell you that this one rule presents us news people with some terrible problems. Not knowing when the major stories are about to break, we are therefore compelled to avoid sex for days and weeks at a time.

It's no great sacrifice for those of us over 40, but some of the younger types are beginning to complain. Relationships are breaking up. Some of our people are even talking about going back to teaching.

I don't think you people out there appreciate the lengths we reporters go to, just to bring you the day's top story.

Sound and Fury

Walt Hecox

Dear Mrs. H,

Count your blessings, dear lady. That is the best and perhaps the only advice I can give you.

Count your blessings.

It isn't always easy to find the good side of life, but for most of those of us who live in this great nation if is there if you look for it.

I hadn't thought of my St. Patrick's day column as being one devoted to grief, though grief was in evidence, I suppose, and plenty of it.

What I was leading to was the happy ending and what I was trying to point out was that for every valley there is a mountain, for each depression there is a peak.

I'm no Pollyana, dear lady. Far from it. A man can't live in this business as long as I have and not become acquainted with some of the sad and tawdry parts of life.

Because of that I can tell you that you are lucky to have some blessings to count, as you must certainly have.

You tell you about the loneliness of a widow who "has turned seventy." How you can't stand petty gossip and daily card parties.

I can understand that and certainly I sympathize with your attitude. But you also tell me you are active and fairly well known "in this fine town", that fine town being Livermore.

Those are, dear lady, three of your blessings.

You live in a community you see fit to call this fine town.

You are fairly active though you have "turned seventy."

You are fairly well known.

How many women in Livermore who have "turned seventy" can say as much?

Make no mistake about my attitude I am not delivering a lecture but simply trying to give you a little of the advice you sought when you wrote a letter in response to my "grief" column as you called it.

Because you are active, because you are well known and because you love the community in which you live there are many roads left open to you if you seek them .

I can give you the names of a few seniors organizations. The Livermore senior Citizens Club, the Pleasanton V.I.P Senior Citizens, the Senior Californians of Dublin-San Ramon and the American Association of Retired Persons.

Among them there must be some who feel as you do about intelligent conversations with males with whom you want to "just talk." If not there are many other organizations who would welcome your help. There are so many I don't dare mention one lest the others feel slighted.

There are endless adult classes offered at both high schools, by the recreation and by the college in Livermore.

Believe me, 70 is not one bit too late for furthering your education.

You write well and have lived three score and ten years. Did you ever think about writing your memoirs? And if you feel you must polish your style there are many writers workshops at all of the places just mentioned.

Above everything else, count your blessings.

A person learns to do that in strange ways.

A short time ago I became foolishly angry and actually endangered a considerable degree of my happiness. It was then I counted my blessings and measured them against my foolishness. And it was then I saw how small and petty were my complaints.

I remembered also then how I had first learned to count my blessings.

The year was 1943 and we were three companies surrounded and trapped by Japanese Imperial Marines on a hill which became known as "Cibec's Ridge.

We were pinned down by mortar fire and had been hit badly and only had a handful of hospital corpsmen to take care of many wounded Marines. I was one of them.

I was working on a young man who had been grieviously hurt, both legs shot off, one at the top of the thigh and he was in intense pain. Because of that I was a little slow with him and the chief gave me hell advising me the youngster had nothing left to live for anyway.

I paused then and cursed the chief roundly, citing in the meanwhile everything a paraplegic had for which to live I was, dear lady, counting my blessings.

Yes, I had a dog with which to walk and "I climbed out of a chasm and to the top of one of the hills".— But I think the reason I did so was because of that lesson I learned on a hill named Cibek's Ridge on Bougainville Island in 1943.

For Wednesday, March 24, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Half measures won't cut it today if you're faced with challenging situations. However, you can succeed by going all-out.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today you may look at issues only from the side you wish to view them. This could distort the true picture.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't be taken in today by a sharp horse-trader who is shrewd enough to make valueless concessions in order to win the real pot.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In situations calling for teamwork today, harmonize your aims with associates. Be sure everyone pulls together.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Rewards due you for your efforts may be a trifle slow in coming. They'll be there eventually. Don't give up.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Social situations could be a trifle tricky today. Be on your guard, or you might unintentionally rub someone wrong.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Self-doubts today could keep you from putting forth your best efforts. It would be a mistake to quit before you try.

SCORPIO Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today you may be tempted to doctor a tale a bit in order to please your audience. The safer course is to tell it like it is.

SAGGITARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Before assuming new obligations now, be sure all your old ones are well under control. No use creating future headaches.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan 19) Persons whose cooperation you thought you had may surprise you today when they're reluctant to go along with your plans.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There's a possibility today that you may not properly capitalize on your opportunities because you take them for granted.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your easygoing nature may lead others to think they can expect more from you today than is reasonable. Put your foot down.

The coming year should be an extremely busy one for you, with heavy irons in the fire. Try not to saddle yourself with non productive projects that could detract from your efforts.

If South plays low from dummy at trick one and East sticks in the nine spot, South can still make his contract by letting that nine spot hold the first trick.

East can proceed to clear the suit by playing ace and another spade, but South will be able to knock out West's ace of clubs and collect his nine tricks.

Now, suppose that East happened to hold the ace of clubs. South would be set if he tried that line, but could make his contract by winning the first spade in his hand.

East would score his ace of clubs, but the spade suit would still be stopped.

South can be sure of his contract irrespective of the position of the ace of clubs by playing second-hand high and going right up with dummy's queen of spades. If East takes his ace he won't be able to lead a spade back; if East ducks South will still have a stopper. Either way South is in clover.

Ask the Jacobys

The same Mississippi reader asks if it is proper for declarer to claim the rest of the tricks when he has them or if all hands must be played out card by card.

The answer is "Yes". However, he must make sure there are no problems remaining. Thus, if the opponents still hold a trump or trumps he must announce "Drawing trumps", etc.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

CARNIVAL by Dick Turner

"You've got a weird sense of humor, Dad! You frown when Dexter tells a joke and you laugh when he plays his guitar!"

SIDE GLANCES by Gill Fox

"There's been another increase in our cost-of-substandard-living!"

Sandy Davini with her third grade class at Sunol Glen School

Serene setting, parents bring Sandi to Sunol Glen

(This is the 15th in a continuing series on The Classroom Teachers, focusing on teachers in the Pleasanton, Murray, Amador, San Ramon and Sunol Glen school districts)

The warmth of the parents and children and the serene setting brought Sandy Davini back from Europe to the tiny little hamlet they call Sunol.

Which tells you something about this area and the pretty, young school teacher who came to Sunol Glen from Oakland— by way of the continent!

Holder of a B.S. degree from Cal State Hayward, Sandy did her student teaching in Castro Valley.

She originally intended on teaching a year and then going to Europe.

That was in 1969.

She is now in her seventh year of teaching, all having been spent at Sunol Glen.

Sandy taught fifth grade the first two years and then moved to a fourth grade assignment the next four years. She is now third grade teacher and involved in the Early Childhood Education program at the school. ECE concentrates on kindergarten through third grade students.

She also helped initiate the electives program at Sunol Glen, teaching the arts and crafts segment. An electives program gives students the option of taking classes on subjects that are not normally offered at a school.

But it is the attitudes and cooperation of the school community that Sandy harkens back to.

"I'm the type of teacher who likes to keep the parents well informed," enthuses Sandy in explaining her methods of teaching.

She endorses the ECE program wholeheartedly, and adds that she appreciates teachers who change to meet the needs of their respective classes.

Sandy has also become involved with the Sunol Community Club, the organization that organizes and supports most of the events at the school as well as in the community at large.

Possibly the best indication of a teacher's rapport with young children is how well they respond to one another in both classroom and play yard situations.

And on that score Sandy and her 24 charges would earn nothing but the highest marks.

Experimental films to seek impressions from audience

PLEASANTON — Here's your chance to become a film critic.

The Pleasanton Library will show "Tom Brown's School Days" and "The Search for the Nile" in April. Admission will be free and because the films are part of a nationwide experiment in the coordination of films with popular books, questionnaires will be given to the audience for its impressions of the movies.

The movies are part of a plan called "Films PLUS" (Public Libraries in the United States) designed to encourage the reading of library books related to the film series' titles.

Audiences coming to the films will receive a free, illustrated film guide that contains literary and historical background on the series and suggestions for further reading.

The Pleasanton library is one of more than 150 public libraries in the United States which will participate in Films PLUS this year.

"Tom Brown's School Days" will be shown in two parts with part one on April 13 and 14 at 7 p.m. and part two on April 20 and 21 at 7 p.m. "The Search for the Nile" will be shown in six Parts beginning April 27 and 28 at 7:30 p.m. and each succeeding Tuesday and Wednesday through June 2 at 7:30 p.m.

The film series, printed film guides, suggestions for organizing the programs, and publicity and evaluative material are supplied free of charge to the libraries by the Modern Language Association and Time Life Films through a National Endowment for the Humanities grant.

'Bye, Bye Birdie'

Cast members of "Bye, Bye Birdie" rehearse song from production that will be presented by Pleasanton Middle School students this Friday and Saturday at Amador Valley High School auditorium. In back, on rear platform of "train," is the hero of the musical comedy, "Conrad Birdie," played by Mike Ames. Cast includes 125 in acting roles, chorus and orchestra. Curtain time each night, plus April 2 and 3, will be 8 p.m. Tickets are now on sale at the school office and from Pleasanton Middle School students.

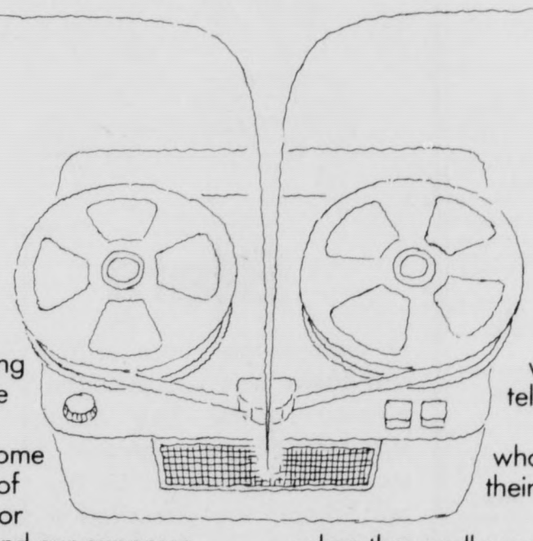
If you call 411 a lot we'd like a few words with you.

"If you've checked your directory and are unable to find the number you wish, please stay on the line and a Directory Assistance Operator will answer. Thank You."



Before long you'll be hearing that recording every time you call 411. It'll come on just before the Operator.

We're putting it on because, even though some people have cut down on their calls to 411, a lot of people still haven't. Many of them are still calling for numbers that are listed in their telephone books, and our expenses are higher than ever.

The problem is that a few people–about 12%–make more than half of all these unnecessary calls. About 2 out of 3 of our customers call without looking in the book first. And you know that everybody winds up paying for all those unnecessary telephone calls.

So the recording is there to remind people who call for a number that may already be listed in their books to try looking it up for themselves first.

To the rest of our customers, who call 411 only when they really can't find a number, we apologize for the delay.

And we want to remind you that, when you really have to call us–for example, if you're handicapped, need numbers from out of this area, a new listing, or when you've looked and just can't find it–we're still here to help.

Hypnotist to speak at library

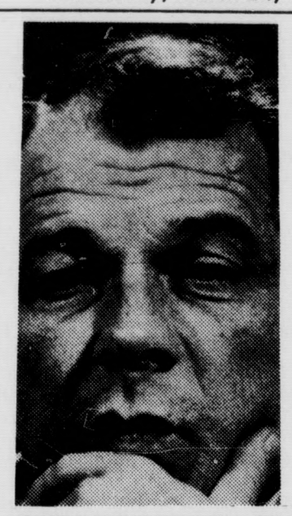
SAN RAMON — Barb Schiavo, hypnotist with the Hypnosis and Awareness Institute, will speak at the San Ramon Valley Branch Library March 25 at 7:30 p.m.

Her topic is "Hypnosis and Awareness." She will discuss what hypnosis is, correcting misunderstandings many people may have about it.

Informatio on the benefits of hypnosis in everyday life will also be offered.

Schiavo has taught at the Danville Community Center, has lectured in public schools, and has given workshops on the use of hypnosis to local medical and dental workers.

For more information call the library, 837-4889.



MORE indictments in the Patty Hearst case may be coming, according to defense attorney F. Lee Bailey. The question of charging William and Emily Harris with kidnapping Miss Hearst will be dealt with "all in good time," according to Bailey — "as soon as we have a witness in front of the grand jury."

Police host seminar

LIVERMORE — The Livermore Police Department will host a crime prevention seminar at the Vine Theater beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Officers will discuss methods to prevent bad check passing, use of stolen cards, shop lifting and robbery. The four - part seminar will last from 9:30 a.m. to 1:20 p.m., with a 15-minute break for refreshments.

Although intended primarily for merchants, the seminar is open to the public. Admission is free. The theater is located at First and South O Streets in Livermore.

At the time of the Revolution it was normal to parole prisoners of war and then arrange for their exchange. As a rule only officers could be exchanged. Exchange of "other ranks" was not favored by the Americans because the emaciated American prisoner barely survived a British jail; only the enemy stood to gain from the exchange. The World Almanac notes.

Sunny Glen now official

SAN RAMON — The former Amador Civic Association, a group of homeowners representing 400 persons in a local adult community, has been officially renamed the Sunny Glen Adult Community Incorporated.

For more than 12 years, residents in the area east of Village Parkway on the Contra Costa County line have been organized and operating as the Amador Civic Association, a non - profit homeowners' organization.

Under direction of the present board of directors, a petition was circulated among the residents which resulted in a request to the state to change the association's name and incorporate it as an adult community.

The documents were registered in Sacramento and Martinez in February.

Elmer Cooper appears again before jury

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — BART Board President Elmer Cooper, under investigation for possible irregularities in his district expense account, appeared under subpoena before the county grand jury yesterday.

It was his second examination by the 19 member panel.

The 34-year-old San Francisco representative brought records including $700 in canceled checks for payments to two members of his urban consulting firm.

In the ten months ending last September, Cooper was reimbursed for nearly $20,000 in expenses. His presidential predecessor, Richard Clark, who appeared voluntarily before the grand jury, charged some $9,500 to the three county transit system.

As board president, Clark approved all directors expense account claims.

Their expense ledgers first made news when Livermore director Robert Allen brought them to the attention of Times investigative reporter Justin Roberts.

Cooper denied any wrongdoing yesterday, saying "I think this whole thing is politically motivated."

Brandes wants a reverse of verdict

PLEASANTON — Councilman Frank Brandes thinks the city council should reverse the planning commission's granting of a variance to Henry Gomez.

Gomez won approval for the variance to allow construction of an additional room in his home at 1815 Brooktree Way a few weeks ago. Brandes saw news of this variance in notes forwarded to the city council.

Brandes said he agrees with the planning staff's oppposition to the variance on grounds that the new room would encroach too far into the rear yard. There would be approximately 12 feet between the room and the rear fence and the backyard space would be too small, reported Brandes.

Mayor Robert Philcox wondered whether it was in order for Brandes to put the item on the city council's agenda. City Attorney Ken Scheidig said that any citizen can appeal the planning commission's decision.

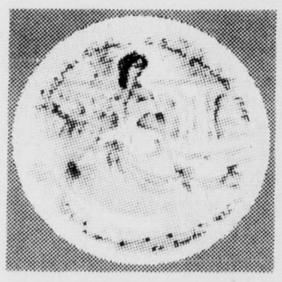
Should Your Wife Collect Rare Plates?

NORTHBROOK, Ill.—The director of a worldwide art exchange in this Chicago suburb has announced a new, easy way to start collecting rare porcelain plates with the potential of becoming future heirlooms with high resale value. This method helps housewives and other amateur collectors.

According to Roderick MacArthur, director of the Bradford Exchange, one decorative "annual" plate priced at $25 in 1965 now brings $1,750, and one china plate selling at $10 in 1969 now sells for $440. In the past only a few fortunate people could afford to collect works of art, but now literally thousands of collectors with average incomes enjoy this fascinating hobby for fun and profit.



Will this plate multiply in value to 10, 15 or even 20 times its original price as other plates have done?

MR. MACARTHUR says, "Since many plates do not increase in value, amateurs often make serious mistakes. It's critical to know what to look for, what to pay, when to sell, and much more." Even if you have never collected plates before, there are little-known guidelines that tell you how to own plates of the finest porcelain designed by a distinguished artist for a modest outlay.

To help you get started in the rewarding hobby of plate collecting, the Exchange now offers a new free report just off the press. It tells you how to look for good design, rarity, historic importance, and other important clues to selecting the right plates.

THIS FREE REPORT is available to individuals who wish to own beautiful handcrafted plates produced in America and abroad. It tells how you can be one of the few to own a stunning porcelain made in France for a surprisingly low price and lists other selections that could become tomorrow's treasured heirlooms.

If you seek a new hobby that could lead to extra spare-time income, here's your opportunity to find out about the wonderful world of collecting objets d'art. The Exchange invites individuals (not dealers) to send for a free copy of this valuable and interesting report.

To get yours, just send your name, address, and zip code to Roderick MacArthur, the Bradford Exchange, 12210 Bradford Place, Northbrook, Ill. 60062. A postcard will do. There is no obligation for this service, but please mail your request by April 3, 1976 to be sure of receiving your free copy.
